Kapiti Island Bird Sanctuary Tour

Kāpiti Island offers one of New Zealand's premier nature experiences, and also one of the best kiwi spotting opportunities. You are hosted by the whanau (family) of Kāpiti Island and this protected island is rich not only in forest and wildlife but also in genuine Māori hospitality. Visitor numbers are restricted as wildlife has top priority. Options include day trips with guided or independent walks on the island on trails that are a mix of easy to demanding hiking. The island is surrounded by the Kāpiti Marine reserve and summertime swimming, snorkelling and sea kayaking options are available for guests.

The Kāpiti Day Tour includes return ferry transport, a guided walk with an experienced and knowledgeable guide, delicious cooked lunch, tea and coffee and local permits. This is a fantastic nature and Māori cultural experience in a very special wildlife sanctuary where you will see an unsurpassed range of endangered species. Your guide will bring the island to life with stories of Maori and early European history, as well as the long and successful conservation activity.

After a delicious lunch at Kāpiti Nature Lodge, there are options available for additional independent walking or to just relax around the Lodge.

Recommendations

For those with time, Kapiti's Overnight Kiwi Spotting Tour is New Zealand's most reliable Little Spotted Kiwi viewing opportunity. The lodge has been home to the whanau since 1820 and offers cosy and warm accommodation options-cabins, bungalow or bush-edge "lux' tents. There is something very unique about Kiwi's foraging outside your tent or cabin at night-with Takahe, Kaka, Saddleback and other endangered species visiting by day. Great meals and famous hospitality-manaakitanga are the hallmarks associated with Kapiti Island Nature Tours and Kapiti Nature Lodge. Accommodation from $395.
